Read the story. Circle or write the answer to each question.

Mary Anderson

The inventor of the first window wipers for a car was Mary Anderson. In the 1880s, Mary visited New York City and took a ride on a streetcar during stormy weather. She noticed that the driver had to get off the streetcar to clean his window. That must have made the driver angry. It gave Mary the idea for her invention. She designed wipers that a driver could control from inside a car. Mary Anderson got the rights to her invention in 1905.

1. How do you know this story is nonfiction?
   - The story is about a real person.
   - The story is about an interesting subject.

2. What fact tells you Mary Anderson really invented wipers for cars?

3. Which sentence in the story is an opinion?